What is ANOC?

Autism News of Orange County & the Rest of the World (ANOC) is a newsletter dedicated to sharing research-based strategies, innovative educational approaches, best practices and experiences of children with autism and their families.

ANOC has an International Advisory Board with autism experts from the US, Australia, Europe and Asia as well as dedicated parents, teachers and therapists. As such, it has become a highly educational newsletter, providing important information for parents and professionals both in and outside of the region. ANOC fills the gap between professional autism journals and unfiltered web-information.

Who has contributed articles to ANOC?

ANOC has published contributions from more than a dozen renowned universities, among them University of California (UCI, UCLA, UCSD, UCSF), University of Cambridge and the University of North Carolina. Parents and professionals from various disciplines have published in our newsletter.

What is ANOC's organizational structure?

ANOC has an Editor, an Assistant Editor, an Editorial Board, and Local and International Advisory Boards. The Editor of ANOC is a Clinical Psychologist and BCBA with extensive clinical and research background in the field of autism. She has been working in Germany, Singapore and the US and has just published two books on Autism Spectrum Disorders.

What topics do you cover?

Each issue has three sections: Applied Research, Education/Therapy and Parent/Family. In addition, we provide highlights and information on important events. All articles are reviewed by our Editorial Board.

Through focus issues we provide in-depth coverage of many topics of importance to families and professionals in the area of autism.

In the recent past, ANOC's focus issues have covered these topics:

- Visual Support (Winter, 2007)
- Computers, Technology and Play (Fall 2007)
- Purpose of Education (Spring, 2007)
- Behavior Challenges (Summer, 2007)
- Evidence-Based Practices (Summer, 2006)
- Family Issues (Fall 2006)
- Transition and Integration (Winter/Spring, 2006)
- Recent Trends in Research, Diagnosis, Treatment and Education (Spring, 2005)
- Treatment Approaches (Summer/Fall, 2005)

Who reads ANOC?

Our readership includes families and professionals working in the field. We print between 2,000 and 3,000 hardcopies of our newsletter, which comes out three times a year. We mail out approximately 250 hardcopies of each issue, while the remainder are distributed through our sponsoring agencies in their offices, workshops, presentations, and schools.

Our website has past and current issues for free downloading. Free subscriptions are also available through:
